Naig to Present the Dooyema Family with the Wergin Good Farm Neighbor Award

PUBLISHED ON JULY 22, 2024

SIoux COUNTY FARM FAMILY IS NOT ONLY A LEADER WITHIN IOWA AGRICULTURE, BUT THEY ARE DEEPLY CONNECTED AND COMMITTED TO THEIR COMMUNITY

DES MOINES, Iowa — Iowa Secretary of Agriculture Mike Naig will present the Wergin Good Farm Neighbor Award to Bruce and Deb Dooyema of Sioux County on Wednesday, July 24. The presentation will take place during an event beginning at 11 a.m. at the Sioux Center Ambulance Garage in Sioux Center.

Center Fresh Egg Farm today includes more than 4 million egg laying hens, but Bruce Dooyema's start in the business as a seventh grader was far more modest. In 1978, Bruce asked his parents, then dairy, swine and cattle farmers, for chickens as a summer project. The initial group of 24 chickens, cared for by Bruce and his brothers Kim and Eric, ignited a family passion for poultry that has only grown over the last four decades. Soon after, Dooyema and Sons was established, and a 60,000 head chicken coop was constructed. During the 1990's, the egg industry went through a period of consolidation and Center Fresh Egg Farm was established in 1996 with 1 million birds and 8 partners. Dooyema and Sons sold shares of their farm to Center Fresh in 2015. Today, Center Fresh is made up of 15 owners, all of whom were smaller scale producers that came together to combine their skills, talents, and resources. Bruce credits his brothers, as well as the Dean and Visser Families as integral partners in the continued success of Center Fresh.

"Iowa is the national leader in egg production, and we can attribute that ongoing success and productivity to farmers and industry leaders like Bruce Dooyema and the team at Center Fresh," said Secretary Naig. "Not only is Center Fresh focused on a high standard of animal care, but they also implement proven conservation practices to sustainably enhance and protect our soil and water. From Sioux Center to Mozambique, the Dooyemas give back in so many ways and I am pleased to present them with the Wergin Good Farm Neighbor Award."
